THANK YOU

To all RHS students, staff, and WPS employees and administrators,

I will never be able to thank you enough! What a fantastic school year I've had here at Roosevelt. Coming to work everyday is like going home to a second family. We work together, laugh together, learn together, eat together and even argue a little bit.

In the end, just like a real family, we have the same goals in mind and we all have the same name: We are the Bears!

The LMC would not be what it is without the supportive environment I've had to work in. There have been many changes to our LMC this year and you've each taken them in stride, complimented them and contributed to its upbeat, fun, and comfortable culture.

The second page of this issue of the Roaring Reader summarizes the LMC highlights of this year. As I was compiling the list, I was amazed and pleased with all that has been accomplished. I owe it to all of you!

I wish everyone a fun, safe summer filled with lots of reading. I look forward to seeing all of you next year and continuing to provide a nurturing, safe hub at the heart of our school.

Thanks again and GO BEARS!

EASY WAYS TO GET IN SUMMER READING

Sad the LMC is closed for the summer? Me too! Have no worries. We can still get in our reading fix until the LMC is back up and running in September. Here are Mrs. Z's tips to finding summer reading material:

- Bacon library. They have everything and if they don't, they'll help you find it! If you are an RHS student, you can get a Bacon library card as long as a parent goes with you to apply for it.
- Thrift stores. People give away really good books! I call it treasure hunting. If you spend enough time looking, you will hit the jackpot. Plus, most books are $1 or less.
- Garage sales. While you're out riding your bike or walking the dog, stop at garage sales. There is almost always a box of books. Usually the seller wants to bundle books so, you can find a real bargain just because they want this stuff out of their house. Their loss, your gain!
- Amazon.com. If you have a computer or an ereader device, there are SO MANY free books on Amazon! Try a new genre. You've got nothing to lose.
- Your friends. Start your own book exchange. What are you going to do with all those books you've finished anyway? Share the wealth!

Let Mrs. Z know what you are reading over the summer:

Happy reading, Bear Cubs!

Don't go yet! There's more.
